

evolution of populations pearson pdf

populations became geographically iso-lated. They no longer shared a gene pool. Seed sizes on the second island favored birds with larger beaks. The population on the second island evolved into a population with larger beaks. Eventually, the large-beaked birds on the second island became reproductively isolated and evolved into a new species.

Chapter 16 Evolution of Populations Summary

bottleneck effect: Genetic drift that occurs when the size of a population is reduced, as by a natural disaster or human actions. Typically, the surviving population is no longer genetically representative of the original population. Concept 23.4 Natural selection is the only mechanism that consistently causes adaptive evolution 24.

16. If the frequency of alleles in a population remains constant, the population is at Hardy-Weinberg equilibrium. There are five conditions for Hardy-Weinberg equilibrium. It is very important for you to know these conditions, so enter them neatly into the box below.

Section 16-2 Evolution as Genetic Change(pages 397-402) This section explains how natural selection affects different types of traits. It also describes how populations can change genetically by chance as well as the conditions that prevent populations from changing genetically. Natural Selection on Single-Gene Traits(pages 397-398) 1.
