who first coined the term "geographic information system"™ for this novel way of using computers, oversaw the extraordinarily innovative creation of the Canada Geographic Information System, and became the world's™ foremost proponent of the GIS vision over the following decades.

GEOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION SYSTEMS

A geographic information system (GIS) can be defined as a computer application capable of performing virtually any conceivable operation on geographic information, from acquisition and compilation through visualization, query, and analysis to modeling, sharing, and archiving (Longley et al., 1999, 2010). In turn, geographic information is
