Most quantitative studies follow these steps: 1) Select the target population, 2) Select the accessible population, 3) State the eligibility criteria, 4) Outline the sampling plan, and 5) recruit the sample. Most qualitative studies might evolve this way: 1) a general idea of where and with what population to start and by soliciting a few cases through convenience procedures, 2) successive Ethnography (from Greek $\acute{\alpha}\nu\theta\rho\omega\varsigma$, ethnos "folk, people, nation" and $\gamma\rho\alpha\phi\omega$ grapho "I write") is the systematic study of people and cultures. It is designed to explore cultural phenomena where the researcher observes society from the point of view of the subject of the study. An ethnography is a means to represent graphically and in writing the culture of a group.

Three approaches to participative inquiry - Peter Reason

Action research is either research initiated to solve an immediate problem or a reflective process of progressive problem solving led by individuals working with others in teams or as part of a "community of practice" to improve the way they address issues and solve problems. There are two types of action research: participatory and practical [further explanation needed].
